

National Commission for Minorities

RESOLUTION

24.02.2015

National Commission for Minorities is deeply saddened by some remarks highlighted by the media casting aspersions on the activities of the Late Mother Teresa.

The lifelong service and selfless love for her fellow humans exhibited by her has very few parallels in history. There have never been questions raised about any religious bias in her humanitarian work.

The Commission would request all concerned to exercise utmost restraint during discussion or debate regarding personalities wholly involved in selfless social service. Harsh and unfounded criticism needlessly hurts the feelings of large sections of society and is, therefore, avoidable.
